

DISTRICT COURT ANNUAL STATISTICAL REPORT

FISCAL YEAR 2022

INTRODUCTION

Fiscal year 2022 saw several important changes for data in the Wyoming Judicial Branch. Six district courts were migrated over to the new case management system (CMS). This allows the Judicial Branch to utilize the Court Statistic Projects (CSP) reporting framework and include more detail in the annual statistical report.

METHODS

The data contained within this report are defined by the following criteria. Data and the methods cover case statistics for district courts only. All data was gathered for fiscal year 2022 (July 1, 2021 – June 30, 2022). The statistics were calculated from a static copy of the Judicial Branch warehouse created September 6, 2022. Any changes to the data made after this date will not be reflected in this report.

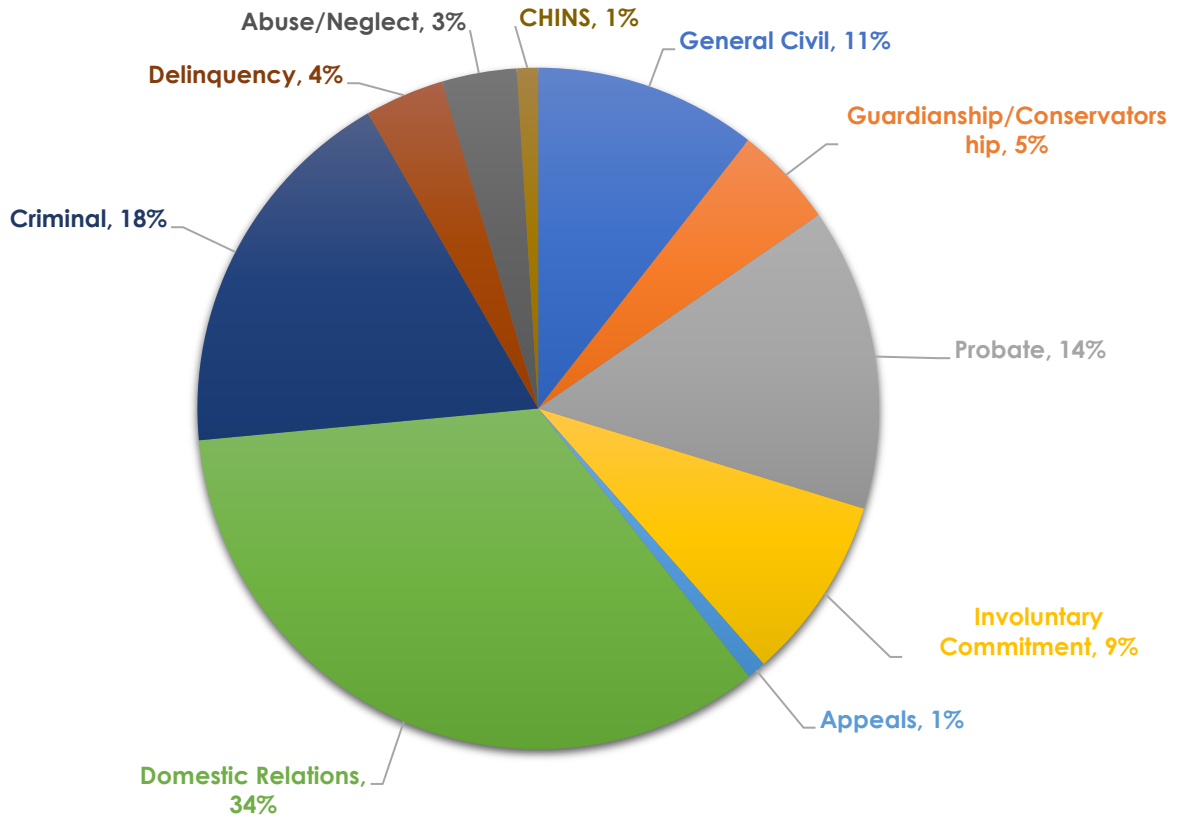

For fiscal year 2022 the methods for categorizing and counting cases changed. The previous annual statistics relied on the older Wyoming-centric statistical model. With the rollout of the new CMS, the Judicial Branch updated the statistical model to that provided by the CSP. This new model allows the Judicial Branch to readily compare its case statistics with other states and national trends. The CSP provides a detailed reporting and statistical framework that is utilized by most states. Information on the CSP framework can found in the State Court Guide to Statistical Reporting.

The CSP framework consists of over 80 different case types, which can be an overwhelming amount of information when attempting to do a year-to-year comparison or create a high-level analysis. To aid in the readability and analysis, the Judicial Branch has reduced those types down to ten case categories for district court by grouping similar case types.

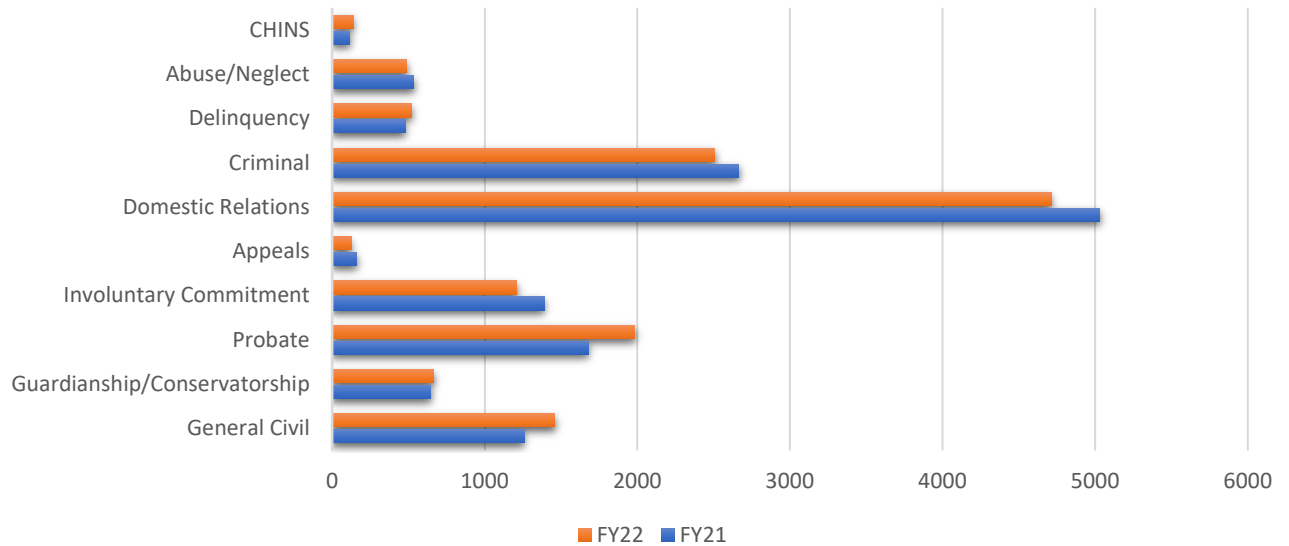

Another change from previous reports will be the Judicial Branch's method of count. All case counts are based on the number of new filings, regardless of the number of participants on the case. This differs from previous reporting in several ways. Abuse/neglect and termination of parental rights cases were counted by the number of juveniles, they are now counted by number of petitions. Also, domestic petitions to modify were included in the count, these are not counted in the CSP framework. Overall, this change in method of count will lead to a decrease in total case counts compared to the previous methods. This makes year-to-year comparisons difficult until the Judicial Branch has the necessary depth of data based on the new method. To help bridge the gap this report includes data from fiscal year 2021 based on the new counting method for comparison.
